

AFPC Fellow in Russia Studies Samuel Bendett quoted in Defense One.com article regarding developments in Russian military technology.

October 11, 2018

Related Expert: Samuel Bendett

"Russia is investing in military high-tech development, and especially in domestically produced software and hardware. The data centers working with this cloud are all made with 'Russian components.' Such an approach is key to Moscow ensuring that its key components like data are shielded from potential Western interference," said Sam Bendett.