

CACI Forum: “Uzbekistan in Transition: Action Strategy for Reforms.”

October 17, 2017

Related Categories: Democracy and Governance; Caucasus; Central Asia

Related Expert: S. Frederick Starr, Svante E. Cornell

Forum on “Uzbekistan in Transition: Action Strategy for Reforms.” er information on the new Uzbek president’s reform agenda for rman of the Uzbek Parliament’s Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Uzbek officials outline the country’s reform strategy on Capitol Hill.

Alisher Kurmanov, and Deputy Chairman of the State Investment Committee Laziz Kudratov. Based on findings from Uzbekistan’s new Development Strategy Center, these speakers detailed profound reform efforts across the Uzbek economy and answered direct and detailed questions on the current state of the country. The speakers emphasized that many of the barriers to reform and development in Uzbekistan are barriers for Central Asia as a whole. Regional stability, earlier economic policies, and a separation from the larger international community are all problems reportedly in the process of being resolved by the current government’s efforts.