In the claustrophobic atmosphere of today's Kabul, uncertainty reigns: security, politics, business, and finance. Afghanistan is a large country and its society is rapidly changing. Do there exist compensating factors that we are ignoring and, if so, what are they?

Our speaker, Mr. Shoaib Rahim, Senior Adviser, Afghanistan's State Ministry for Peace, will address these questions.

The follow-up discussion will be moderated by S. Frederick Starr, Chairman, Central Asia-Caucasus Institute
