

Biden Faces an Evolving Middle East

November 19, 2020

Related Categories: Democracy and Governance; Public Diplomacy and Information Operations; Middle East

Related Expert: Lawrence J. Haas

"The news that Bahrain's foreign minister is meeting with Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu in Israel this week highlights the predicament that president elect Joe Biden faces in the Middle East: he wants to restore a U.S. approach to the region that relies on increasingly out-of-date assumptions."

AFPC's senior fellow for US Foreign Policy Lawrence J Haas writes about how Biden's administration will face an evolving Middle East in Newsweek. Continue reading here.