

AFPC Webinar: Islamism in the Southern Gulf

April 1, 2021

Related Categories: Human Rights and Humanitarian Issues; Islamic Extremism; Terrorism; Middle East

Related Expert: Ilan I. Berman

The southern Persian Gulf today represents an interplay of complex Islamist currents. From Iran's involvement in Yemen's long-running civil war to the changing nature of faith in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the area is now one of intense ideological and geopolitical competition – one that will help shape the broader Middle East in profound ways. Our expert panel will delve into those complexities and their implications for the region.

Panelists:

- Katherine Zimmerman, Resident Fellow, American Enterprise Institute
- Varsha Koduvayur, Senior Research Analyst, Foundation for Defense of Democracies
- James Barnett, Research Fellow, Hudson Institute

and moderator Ilan Berman, Senior Vice President, American Foreign Policy Council

▪