

Iran Strategy Brief No. 2: The Dangers of Deterrence

February 28, 2007 James S. Robbins

Related Categories: Islamic Extremism; Military Innovation; Terrorism; Iran; North America

While there is still hope that Iran will not develop nuclear weapons, it is becoming more likely that a nucleararmed Iran will become a reality in the near future. It therefore is useful to begin looking at strategic models for managing the threat of nuclear weapons if Iran actually develops them, and to consider exactly what risks the civilized world would be facing.

Read the full Iran Strategy Brief, in PDF form, by clicking on the link below.